“INVESTING DURING A PANDEMIC”: NONPROFIT ALLIANCE FOR INVESTOR EDUCATION HIGHLIGHTS BEST RESOURCES

10 Resources Offered to Assist Investors Navigating the Current Crisis Environment

The coronavirus pandemic has created a shockwave of chaos, touching almost every aspect daily life across the globe—including investing. In response, the nonprofit Alliance for Investor Education (AIE) is offering a new resource: “Investing During a Pandemic: COVID-19 Investor Support” at <http://www.investoreducation.org/COVID-19>.

The Alliance is a consortium of 12 leading U.S. financial-related foundations, nonprofit organizations, associations, and governmental agencies.

AIE president Jason Doss, who also serves as the president of Doss Firm said: “The coronavirus pandemic leaves our nation in an unprecedented time in which many investors may not know where to turn to for help. The Alliance for Investor Education hopes to assist investors — regardless of their experience level — to find the resources needed to navigate this crisis environment. Experience teaches that those investors who take the time to avail themselves of the best resources will fare much better.”

The new “Investing During a Pandemic: COVID-19 Investor Support” section of the AIE website features the following 10 resources for consumers:
