DETERMINING A STOCK'S TRUE WORTH

Wayne A. Thorp, CFA

Vice President, Senior Financial Analyst, AAIL

YOU WILL LEARN

- About the important factors that affect stock values
- How to use fundamental tools in valuing a stock
- Where to find the best stock information online

AAIL has been developing and testing a variety of stock screens for over 10 years. While many members follow these screens, a common question once they have their list of passing companies is "What now?" Using real-world examples and some of today's most useful financial websites, Wayne Thorp will show you how to perform a step-by-step analysis of a company using popular online research and data sources to decide whether it's right for your portfolio.

Wayne A. Thorp is a vice president at AAIL and the editor of Computerized Investing, the premier publication covering the use of personal computers for financial planning, investment analysis and portfolio management. As a financial columnist for AAIL, Thorp has written a column for the AAIL Journal on technical analysis as well as articles on stock screening and analysis. He also is product manager for the Stock Investor Pro computerized fundamental data and screening program and serves on the Stock Superstars Report (SSR) and Dividend Investing (DI) advisory committees.

Thorp is a graduate of DePaul University in Chicago, where he earned a bachelor's degree in finance. He was awarded the Chartered Financial Analyst (CFA) designation in 2002. He has been with AAIL since 1997. You can follow him on Twitter: @WayneTAAIL
